Action on Gender Equality

Gender Pay Gaps

The gender pay gap is the difference in average or median earnings between women and men. It is a measure of how we value the contribution of women and men in the workforce. The gender pay gap is not to be confused with women and men being paid the same for the same, or comparable, job – this is equal pay. Equal pay for equal work is a legal requirement in Australia. However, illegal instances of unequal pay can still be one of the many drivers of the gender pay gap. Closing the gender pay gap is important for Australia's economic future and reflects our aspiration to be an equal and fair society for all.

2.1 Do you have formal policies and/or formal strategies on equal remuneration (pay equity and the gender pay gap) between women and men?

Yes

Policy; Strategy

2.1a Do the formal policies and/or formal strategies include any of the following?

To ensure no gender bias occurs at any point in the remuneration review process (for example at commencement, at annual salary reviews, out-of-cycle pay reviews, and performance reviews); To implement and/or maintain a transparent and rigorous performance assessment process

2.2 Have you conducted analysis to determine if there are remuneration gaps between women and men?

Yes

2.2a What type of gender remuneration gap analysis has been undertaken?

Like-for-like pay gaps analysis which compares the same or similar roles of equal or comparable value to identify unequal pay; A by-level gap analysis which compares the difference between women's and men's average pay within the same employee category; Overall gender pay gap analysis to identify the difference between women's and men's average pay and gender composition across the whole organisation

2.2b When was the most recent gender remuneration gap analysis undertaken?

Within the last 12 months

2.2c Did you take any actions as a result of your gender remuneration gap analysis?

Yes

Corrected instances of unequal pay; Identified cause/s of the gaps; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the governing body; Reported results of pay gap analysis to the executive; Reviewed and implemented performance evaluation processes to ensure no gender bias; Developed a strategy to address workforce composition issues – e.g. attracting more underrepresented gender into specific higher-paying roles

You may also provide more detail below on the gender remuneration gap analysis that was undertaken.

2.3 If your organisation would like to provide additional information relating to employer action on pay equity and/or gender remuneration gaps in your workplace, please do so below.

On an annual basis, OFX conducts a like-for-like analysis of the pay competitiveness of men and women relative to the market median base salary for their role. Following the FY24 remuneration review, average pay competitiveness of base salary compared to market median for role (Females: 99.7 Males: 100%). OFX does not have sufficient numbers of employees in the same role to enable a reliable like-for-like comparison of base salaries between men and women. Similarly, OFX does not have pay grades/levels to enable a like-for-like comparison by level. Hence comparison of pay competitiveness of women and men against the market median base salary for their role is the most appropriate like-for-like comparison.

OFX has embedded a hybrid model of work across the organisation, which for most of our employees means a combination of working from home and in the office. The need to come into the office is determined by the nature of the work, the way teams organise to be most effective and the needs of the customers (internal and external) they support. In this way, working arrangements will look different across teams and even within teams. • Leaders are empowered to discuss and plan with their teams the best working arrangements that meet the three-way test, and that this will look different for every team, within teams and regions. • This is not a set and forget arrangement, we've taken an 'always keep learning' approach and constantly check in and revise where necessary • People Leaders and team members have been equipped with the tools they need to enable successful hybrid working arrangements.

Employee Support for Parents and Carers

Paid Parental Leave

Parental leave policies are designed to support and protect working parents around the time of childbirth or adoption of a child and when children are young. Some employers offer universally available parental leave policies, offering equal parental leave for all parents, others offer with a distinction between 'primary' and 'secondary' carers. It's important that it's a policy that's available to all parents, irrespective of gender, ¹³recognising the equally important role of all parents in caregiving.
